(b) a plurality of ropes adapted to be connected to the ground post and laid out on a playing surface for delineating foul lines of an adjustable length for the game.

(c) A homerun rope connected to the ground post, laid out on the playing surface [connected to the plurality of ropes] to delineate an adjustable predetermined distance required for a ball to be hit during the game to be scored as a homerun;

(d) A plurality of markers slidingly attached [connected to the playing surface and] to the plurality of ropes to adjustably delineate the distance required for a ball to be hit during the game to be scored as a single, a double or a triple;

(e) A home plate marker set onto the playing surface and connected to the [plurality of ropes] ground post; (and)

(f) A strike zone connected to the ground post comprising [a material adapted to be received on] a frame and a fabric attached to the frame whereby the [material] frame comprises a second post attached to the ground post and a rectangle adapted to receive the fabric that delineates the strike zone wherein the fabric also comprises a carrying bag for all items comprising the portable playing field [with all the ropes being adjustable to fit the playing surface and the players' age and skill levels].

A clean copy of amended Claim 3 is attached hereto as Exhibit A.